

"Can't Reform Nature," Says Blanche Bates, Actress, Wife and Mother

"It's all nonsense! Women now just men's equals, and they never will be!" says Blanche Bates, whose name is now one of the six most successful voices of the American stage. Now the thoughtful actress, compactly emancipated, intones: "Don't worry, my words seem little short of heresy."

GRAVE OF ANN RUTLEDGE MARKED BY MONUMENT

ADVENTISTS OPPOSE PROPOSED BLUE LAWS
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The grave of Ann Rutledge, sweetheart of Abraham Lincoln, who lies buried in rural Indiana here, was marked today with a beautiful granite monument purchased by descendants of those who were intimately acquainted with the great emancipator when he was a New Salem boy.

The monument consists of a small granite stone, roughly hewn, inscribed "Ann Rutledge" and which has been the only mark to the final resting place of the girl who was nearer and dearer to Lincoln than perhaps anyone else in history days.

The new stone is a massive one of Indiana granite and it is inscribed with words from Edgar Lee Masters.

The men rushed shortly to an automobile waiting in front of the establishment and made their escape. No trace of them has been found, police added late tonight.
